'I Am a 100 Percent Believer'

ALTRUM customer Laurie Serba, 51, of Grand Rapids, Mich. is a "100 percent believer" in the benefits of the supplements.

Serba is a self-described high-energy person. She works with special needs adults in the Grand Rapids Public School system.

Serba always has believed in taking care of herself. She exercises daily and eats a nutritious diet. "I've always taken vitamins of some sort," Serba said. She has taken a multivitamin as well as fish oil supplements for years and added calcium as she got older.

Serba has taken Walgreens brand vitamins, One-A-Day and DNC, to name a few. "I thought a vitamin's a vitamin," she said.

"The results have been tremendous."

Dealers Offer Solid Information

About a year ago, Serba talked with two co-workers, Dealers Curtis Bird and Eric Gale, about the difference in quality of vitamins. Bird did some research on the vitamins she was taking at the time.

"I never realized how many fillers there were in them for color and size," she said. "What a disappointment."

Bird and Gale spoke knowledgeably about ALTRUM supplements. "I had an assortment of questions about ALTRUM," Serba said. "They gave me information about performance, effectiveness and results with ALTRUM supplements, and I felt they were honest and sincere in their presentation of the benefits. The way it was presented to me was very professional."

Free Trial Earns Customer

Curtis gave me some supplements to try, A.J.'s Ultra Multis and Alfalfa, for a month, with no pressure to buy. He's a true advocate of the supplements."

She took the recommended daily dosage. "I know it takes time to really get into your system and I had only taken them for one month, so that's when I made the investment," she said.

Study: Fish Oil Benefits Even After Heart Attack

A decade of research consistently concludes omega-3 fatty acids from fish or fish oil supplements decrease the risk of atherosclerosis, arrhythmias, heart attacks and sudden cardiac death.

A new study of tens of thousands of patients shows omega-3s also improve cardiovascular (CV) health in people who already have had heart attacks.

The research, published in the August 11, 2009, issue of the Journal of the American College of Cardiology, is so conclusive the scientists who conducted the study suggest everyone should consume omega-3s daily for heart health.

“This isn’t just hype; we now have tremendous and compelling evidence from very large studies, some dating back 20 and 30 years, that demonstrate the protective benefits of omega-3 fish oil in multiple aspects of preventive cardiology,” said Dr. Carl Lavie, medical director of Cardiac Rehabilitation and Prevention at the Ochsner Medical Center in New Orleans. “The strongest evidence of a cardioprotective effect of omega-3s appears in patients with established cardiovascular disease and following a heart attack with up to a 30 percent reduction in CV-related death.”

The researchers point out that most of the evidence for the cardioprotective benefits involves DHA (docosahexaenoic acid) and EPA (eicosapentaenoic acid), the long-chain fatty acids in the omega-3 family. Studies have shown a reduction in cardiovascular events is inversely related to the tissue levels of EPA and DHA. This is believed to help stabilize any plaque in arteries, improve the heart’s electrical activity, normalize vascular tone, and reduce blood pressure, among other benefits.

Based on their research and the fact the human body doesn’t produce its own essential fatty acids, Dr. Lavie and his research team are now recommending healthy individuals consume 500 mg daily of omega-3 fish oil containing EPA and DHA. People already known to have heart disease or heart failure should take more — about 800 to 1,000 mg every day, according to the researchers. *

Omega-3 Fish Oil May Slow Biological Aging

Omega-3 fatty acids from fish oil may help slow biological aging, according to a study published in last month’s issue of JAMA, the Journal of the American Medical Association. Researchers recruited 608 California patients with stable coronary heart disease and measured the telomere lengths of their chromosomes. Telomeres are the so-called caps of chromosomes that protect DNA within chromosomes. After a five-year follow-up, a significant relationship was observed: higher levels of DHA and EPA omega-3 fatty acids accompanied shorter degeneration of telomeres, while lower DHA and EPA levels accompanied faster degeneration.

The shortening of telomeres is a sign of aging and, thus, omega-3 intake could have a direct affect on biological aging, says lead researcher Ramin Farzaneh-Far, MD, of the University of California-San Francisco Department of Medicine. *

Fish Oil May Help Beat Mental Illness

(NaturalNews) An important new study published in the Archives of General Psychiatry reveals fish oil supplements may beat mental illness.

The study involved 81 people deemed to be at high risk for psychosis. The randomized, placebo-controlled study provided fish oil supplements to half the study subjects for just 12 weeks (the other half received placebo supplements). The results? Those taking the fish oil supplements were five times less likely to develop a psychotic disorder.

Although the study was relatively small, it helps demonstrate the wide-ranging benefits of omega-3 fatty acids, which are thought to be the key nutritional factor in fish oils. It’s little surprise they protect against mental illness, given the importance of healthy fatty acids for the functioning of the nervous system. *

Guaranteed Purity and Quality

ALTRUM: ALTRUM Nutritional Oils and Ultra Omega-3 supplements are manufactured using a patented cold process of molecular distillation. During this process high vacuum pressure is used to evaporate the fish oil. The condensate (omega-3 fatty acids) is caught on a cooled surface. No heat is ever used in this process. This form of molecular distillation guarantees removal of all impurities while maintaining the quality of omega-3 fatty acids. It takes approximately 10 gallons of premium fish oil to produce one gallon of top grade marine lipids using our patented process.

Ultra Omega-3 (DUO) provides the highest quality EPA and DHA essential fatty acids from premium, marine lipids from ultra-purified fish oils. *

Nutritional Oils (DNO) is an all-in-one essential fatty acid (EFA) formula that includes premium omega-3 fatty acids from ultra purified fish oil and pure flaxseed oil, the two best sources of omega-3 available. It also includes Omega-6s.

Potentially Life-Saving Omega-3s

The National Institute of Health lists fish oil and other omega-3 fatty acids as being helpful in treating or preventing 37 conditions.

A study by the Harvard School of Public Health shows that being deficient in omega-3s may be responsible for up to 96,000 preventable deaths each year in the United States. *
